"I enjoy being part of a venture enabling different innovations related to the environment. Working at AI Bio gives me this opportunity."

As a Program Manager, Virginia manages the Sustainable Production funding program. This includes activities such as reviewing research proposals, and providing follow up to research projects.

She brings to her position at AI Bio a background in renewable resource management. Prior to joining AI Bio, Virginia organized and managed projects as a research assistant and environmental consultant. In addition, she obtained her PhD in Forest Biology Management at the University of Alberta, after having completed her Masters in Forest Conservation at the University of Toronto and her Bachelor of Science in Ecology at the University of Chihuahua, Mexico.
